Star Resumes
Testing 4-Color
Print Work

After several weeks' delay The Star finally resumed test work today on producing film separations for four-color reproduction in the newspaper—the most difficult of all the technical processes in the graphic arts.

"Separation" means the creation of four individual negatives from one color transparency—screening out the various colors so that you have one negative for each of the three primary colors and a fourth for the black outline. The "separations" themselves are black and white, but each is placed in a certain unit of the press, which then applies the actual colors. They are applied one by one as the paper moves through the press, correct "register" being maintained by identical holes punched in each negative so that when aligned on the press the four come out in the newspaper looking like a single picture. The first stage in four-color printing is the making of what is known as a mask—which is a black-and-white-copy of the color transparency. The mask and transparency are "registered" and the complete package placed in a giant enlarger called a color separator, and projected onto the easel to enlarge the image on the separation negative to the size in which it will appear in the newspaper. Each of these separation negatives is exposed onto a sensitized aluminum plate and then placed on the press.

It is the making of the color mask that gives us the most trouble. The purpose of the mask is to sharply define the colors of the original transparency. Newspapers have been using an Eastman Kodak item called Tri-Mask film, but with unpredictable results. You may produce three good jobs in succession, and then the fourth will turn out badly.

Our trade is doing one of two things: Switching to another Eastman product known as Silver Mask film, or abandoning color masking entirely and using the original transparency alone. Either of these steps means a separate calibration of the big Berkey color separator—and we are working on both steps today.

Supervising the job are two of my house guests: Wick McCaleb, Eastman Kodak color technician-salesman from EK's regional office at Dallas; and Garland Bosley, vice-president of Jungkind Photo-Graphic, Little Rock, our shop supplier.

Of course the test productions will appear in The Star—leaving the subscribers to judge for themselves.

Fire Bomb Found in Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — Police found a fire bomb in a trash can Wednesday in the neighborhood of a predominately Negro church and intensified patrols in the area Wednesday night.

Last weekend, two Negro churches were destroyed by fire and two others damaged, in what police suspected to be the work of arsonists.

The fire bomb found in the trash can was similar to ones found at the other churches.

Underground Paper Backed by Faculty

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The University of Arkansas Faculty Senate adopted a resolution Wednesday endorsing the sale of "printed news" on the university campus.

The resolution was a result of an effort by the publishers of the Ozark Mountain Times, an underground newspaper, to sell papers on campus.

New Fighting Erupts in South Laos

SAIGON (AP) — New fighting erupted in the Sepone area in southern Laos today as U.S. B52 bombers kept up their heavy pounding of the Ho Chi Minh trail.

Helicopter pilots shuttling into Laos reported heavy rocket and mortar attacks by the North Vietnamese. One helicopter landing zone was said to have been hit by more than 100 rocket and mortar rounds.

Pilots also reported heavy ground contact but could give no details.

A South Vietnamese military spokesman at Quang Tri, Maj. Doan Doc Hoi, said 23 North Vietnamese were killed in two clashes today 11 miles south of Sepone. He said two South Vietnamese were wounded and two were missing.

Fog and low clouds for the third day cut heavily into U.S. helicopter support for the South Vietnamese ground troops sweeping across the North Vietnamese supply network in the Laotian panhandle. But the weather had no effect on the eight-engine B52s flying at altitudes up to 30,000 feet.

Allied sources reported more than 500 North Vietnamese killed by three B52 raids Wednesday in the jungles seven and 25 miles southeast of Sepone, the reported deepest point South Vietnamese have reached in Laos.

Highway Bond Bill Recalled

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A vetoing a possible veto, the Arkansas House recalled from the governor's office Wednesday the bill that proposes a $300 million highway construction bond issue.

The bill, authorizing a special election May 18 on the bond issue, had passed both houses of the legislature and Wednesday was the last day for Gov. Dale Bumpers either to sign the measure, veto it or allow it to become law without his signature.

Rep. John Miller of Melbourne, who made the motion to call the bill from the governor's office, said Bumpers wanted more time to study the bill.

Miller said Bumpers had said he would veto the bill if he had to act on it Wednesday.

The governor has expressed reservations about the measure and has said he might publicly oppose it in the special election if he permitted the bill to become law.

Memories Reconcile Many to the Uneasy Way of Life Today

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — It is our memories that give depth and meaning to our lives.

Without them we would be like robots going endlessly through patterns of taught actions that held for us no purpose. Existence would become merely mindless repetition.

But memories give a framework to living. They become the guideposts that enable us to go back and revisit the past—that past which inexorably and inescapably led us to the transient and uneasy today through which we are being hurried.

You have a refreshing store of memories yourself if you can look back and remember when—

Cigarette Tax Hike Approved

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Unconvinced by arguments that a cigarette tax increase would encourage bootlegging and drive smokers to roll their own, the Arkansas House passed an additional five-cent tax on cigarettes Wednesday, completing legislative approval of all the administration's revenue program except one minor bill.

The bill received 75 favorable votes, the minimum required for passage, and 22 against. Also approved was the emergency clause that puts the bill into effect when Gov. Dale Bumpers signs it.

"I am extremely happy to have all of that behind me," Bumpers said after the vote.

The bill would increase the tax to 17½ cents a package, sec-

Reagan Says Welfare Had No Goal, Failed; Key to Plan Is Work

By BILL STALL
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says welfare in the United States has failed because it has no goal.

The Republican governor has proposed a welfare overhaul program for California which he says can be a model for the nation.

Its purpose, he says, is "to see how close you can come to make welfare eliminate the need for itself."

The key is found in one word: work.

Reagan's program includes a public work force for able-bodied welfare recipients who won't or can't get jobs or participate in job training projects. It would be something like the Depression era Works Progress Administration.

"If you check back to the pre-World War II days, you'll find that WPA, with all the jokes they may want to tell about it, was far more successful than it was unsuccessful," Reagan said in an interview Wednesday.

"And it had virtually replaced welfare."

But since World War II the

10% Hike in SS Benefits Is Likely

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Quick enactment of a 10-per-cent increase in Social Security benefits for 26 million Americans appears certain under a short-cut maneuver worked out by Democratic congressional leaders.

Under the strategy, the increase in benefits and in wage deductions to pay for them would be enacted months ahead of the schedule likely for the Nixon administration's own plan.

The maneuver calls for adding the Social Security provision as a Senate amendment to a House-passed bill raising the national debt limit by $35 billion.

The Senate will open consideration of the debt measure Friday, although final action may not come until Monday.

Democratic leaders said the amendment will be adopted without difficulty, noting the Senate passed 81 to 0 last December a bill providing a 10-per cent Social Security hike; it died because the House refused to go to conference on it.

However, it is understood Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee has now agreed to go along with an increase added to the debt-limit bill.

Tax Relief Emerges as Nixon's Ace in Economic Problem

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tax relief has emerged as President Nixon's ace in the hole to deliver the good year he has promised for the nation's economy in 1971.

It is a policy held in reserve until Nixon's top economic thinkers can determine whether the economy is expanding fast enough to achieve his ambitious goals.

Nixon's "quadriad," his key economic advisers, have all said tax relief for businesses and individuals could be used if the present policies fall short.

Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns is the latest to join the list. He told senators Wednesday the administration needs fiscal flexibility.

"If the rebound in economic activity does not keep pace with national objectives, we

State Prison Ruling in Appeals Court

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A challenge of a lower-court ruling that the Arkansas prison system violates constitutional guarantees against "cruel and unusual" punishment was under study today by a three-judge appellate court.

Arkansas presented oral arguments in the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals Wednesday against a U.S. District Court order that the state bring its two prison farms up to "constitutional tolerability" or close them.

In his ruling on Feb. 18, 1970, Judge J. Smith Henley of Little Rock declared that "disgusting conditions" at the Cummins and Tucker prison farms, taken collectively, constituted the type of cruel and unusual punishment banned by the 8th Amendment.

Judge Henley referred to the prison farm system as "a dark

Antitrust Suit Filed Against GAB

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration took antitrust action today against General Adjustment Bureau, Inc., the nation's largest insurance-adjusting organization, for alleged restraint of trade.

In an antitrust suit filed by the Justice Department against the New York firm the government charges that GAB and its shareholders conspired to boycott independent adjusters, coerce agents to use GAB and sent a uniform billing schedule.

GAB is owned by approximately 170 U.S. insurance companies.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, who announced filing of the suit in U.S. District Court in New York City, said a tentative settlement has been reached with GAB to end the allegedly illegal practices.

The suit says the firm and its shareholders formulated uniform price lists for labor and material used in replacement and repair of damaged property and established uniform practices and procedures for the adjustment and settlement of claims.

As a result the suit contends, holders of insurance policies were denied the benefits of competition in the adjustment and settlement of property damage claims.

The suit also contends that independent adjusters were foreclosed by the alleged conspiracy from handling "a substantial segment of the business of adjusting property damage claims."

Complex Runs Along Hervey, Avenue D

Doyle Rogers, Batesville Realtor and Developer, announced today plans for a new shopping center in Hope with major tenants to be Kroger Company and a TG&Y Family Service Center. The Kroger Store will exceed 16,000 square feet and TG&Y 25,000 square feet. Several service and small shops will be included in the center with another major tenant to be announced at a later date.

The site is a 10 acre tract of land between North Hervey Street (State Highway No. 4 North) and the Frisco Railroad bordered on north by Avenue G and south by Avenue D. Entrance off North Hervey Street will be along a 575 foot frontage commencing with Avenue E. The public will have three separate areas of entrance providing the greatest convenience of access and exits.

Following the rapid expansion of the poultry industry in Southwest Arkansas, of which the Kroger Company is the major factor, the Kroger building will house the largest retail grocery in the trade territory. Kroger has operated a retail grocery in Hope for many years and this expansion is an indication of the company's faith in the future of Hope's economy and its trade territory.

TG&Y operates a chain of 800 variety stores in a 30 state area. These stores are serviced from nine warehouses throughout the U.S.A.

TG&Y considers their stores to be of three classes: One is the expanded variety store, primarily convenience merchandise ranging to about 15,000 square feet and carrying limited junior department store lines; secondly, the family center unit ranging from 20,000 to 30,000 square feet; thirdly, the larger family center unit ranging from 40,000 to 80,000 square feet. Depending upon the size of these family center units, they go heavily into sporting goods, hardware, wearables, fabrics, automotive lines, and several other departments, considering the needs of the community. General Must Explain His PX Schemes

By LAWRENCE L. KNOTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigating senators have set a Friday deadline for a former general to explain financial arrangements involving his alleged protection and promotion of corrupt business schemes on Army bases in Vietnam.

Former Brig. Gen. Earl Franklin Cole left the hearing room of the Senate's investigations subcommittee Wednesday with a senator's warning of possible perjury still ringing in his ears.

Committee members said they were unconvinced by Cole's complete denial of any wrongdoing and his charge he had been destroyed by "untrue, unproven and slanderous" accusations by disgruntled former associates.

Chairman Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., ordered Cole's lawyers to produce his complete financial statement before the Friday session begins and scolded them for not preparing it sooner as ordered.

He pointedly failed to act on a petition by the Cole attorneys that their client be released from further obligation to testify.

"In my judgment there is a very good chance you have committed perjury before this committee," Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., told Cole after 3½ hours of testimony. "In my judgment you have disgraced the uniform you have worn so long."

Percy said Cole had failed to disprove even once the sworn testimony of two-dozen and more witnesses, most of them Army career officers and investigators, who accused him of 43 instances of using "favors, pressure and influence" to boost the fortunes of get-rich promoters dealing with the clubs and PX systems in Vietnam.

Much of the previous testimony over three weeks of hearings concerned Cole's relationship with entrepreneur William J. Crum, and two of his principal firms—Sarl Electronics, a slot machine distributor, and Price & Co., dealer in beer, whiskey and other goods.

Changes in Selective Service Setup

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Col. Willard Hawkins, director of the state Selective Service, announced Wednesday that an economy move by the National Selective Service office would result in the closing of 53 of the state's 78 draft board offices.

Hawkins said the 25 remaining offices—which will be called "administrative sites"—will handle the files and perform the paper work for as many as six draft boards. He said the number of draft board employees in the state would be reduced from 99 to 61. The cut-back goes into effect May 31, he said.

"Unfortunately, we will have to terminate some loyal and dedicated people," Hawkins said. He said that every effort would be made to find other employment for the 38 persons that would be terminated.

The reorganization was ordered by the National Selective Service office, Hawkins said. "Our national budget has been reduced considerably and some services are being reduced accordingly," he said. "Another factor is the general wind-down of military manpower requirements, according to our national headquarters."

Says General Commended My Lai Action

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The taking of testimony in the murder trial of L.T. William Calley Jr. was completed today, at the end of four months of trial.

Early next week the attorneys for both sides will give their final arguments in the case of the 27-year-old lieutenant, accused of the premeditated murder of 102 Vietnamese civilians during an infantry assault on March 16, 1968.

The case could go to the six-officer jury Tuesday or Wednesday, after the judge gives them instructions. If convicted of first-degree murder, Calley could be sentenced to death.

The trial began on Nov. 12 with the selection of the jury, and there have been 46 court days since then. In that time, the prosecution called 57 witnesses, the defense 40 and the jury, 2.

The final witness summoned by the jury—which was exercising a prerogative under military law—was the highest ranking officer in the My Lai area of operation, Col. Oran K. Henderson, the brigade commander.

Ford LTD is the car that can match the luxury of cars costing hundreds of dollars more. And LTD's quiet ride is the standard that those same more expensive cars have to match themselves. That quiet strength is one reason for consumers choosing LTD over all other luxury cars in its class.

Torino is sized and priced right in the middle. Room for six, small car handling.

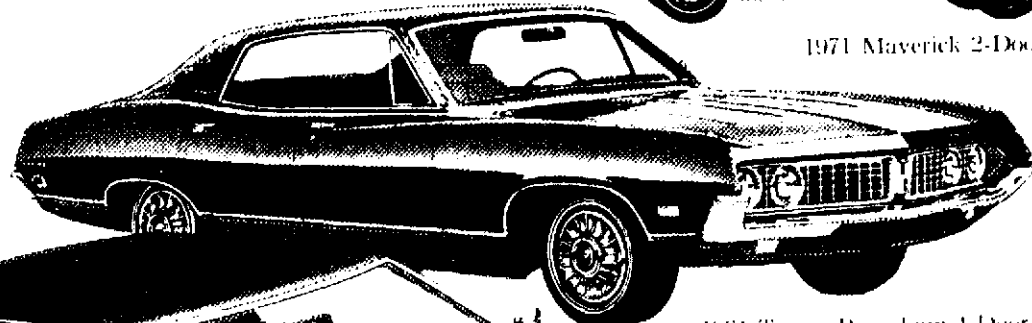

Consumers know the mid-size Torino gives them the roominess of a big car plus the easy handling of a small car. For a price that's right in the middle. As a result, Torino has become the most popular 4-door in its class. Your Ford Dealer has thirteen other models to choose from.

Maverick, the simple compact car, offers 2 doors or 4; 6 or V-8 power.

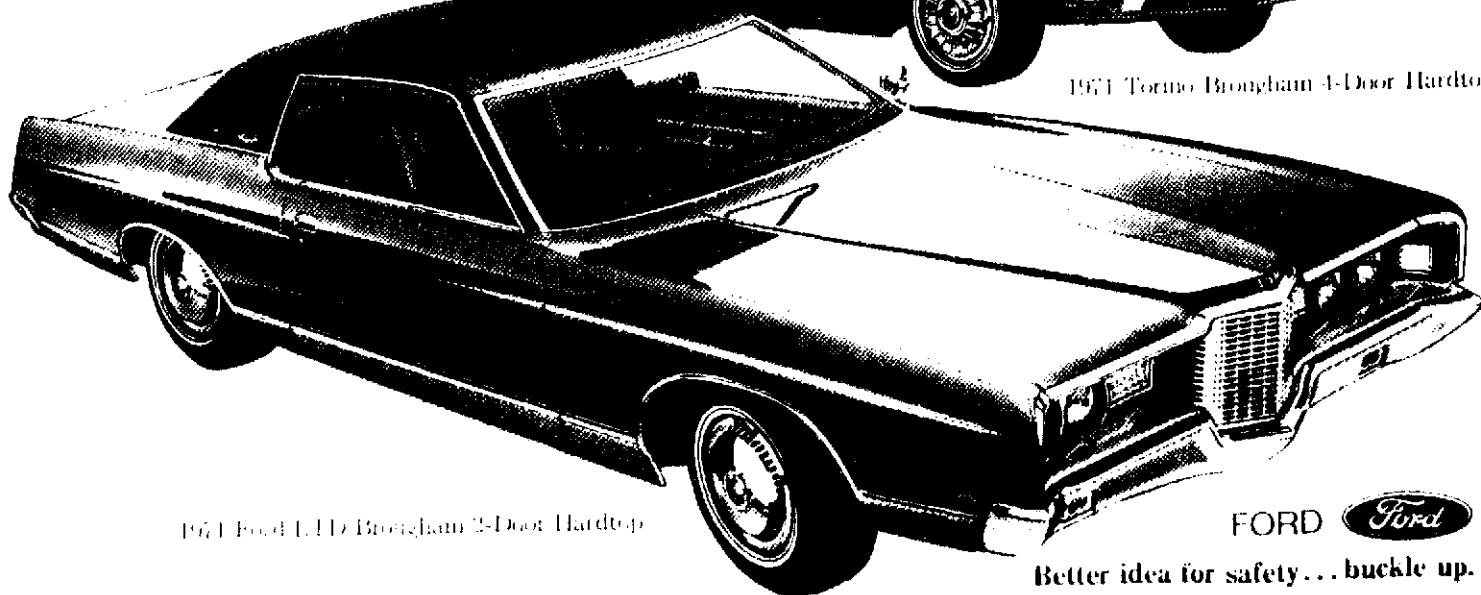

Take Maverick. Consumers know that the simple machine is simple to own and simple to run. And they learned recently that a leading independent survey found Maverick has the best frequency of repair record of any American car. That might explain why it's America's best-selling compact.

Scalp Radios May Help Deaf, Blind

By PAUL RECER

Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A scientist says small radio receivers implanted under the scalp and communicating directly with the brain may one day give sound to some of the deaf and light to some of the blind.

Dr. Jose M.R. Delgado of the Yale University School of Medicine said he already has demonstrated the feasibility of the brain stimulator implants with monkeys.

"We call it a brain pacemaker," he said in an interview Wednesday at the annual national conference of the Neuro-Electric Society.

Electronic signals are picked up by the small receivers and converted into impulses which stimulate selected portions of the brain, he said.

"In the remote future," he said, "we are thinking and considering that this could be used to replace damaged sensory inputs."

"For the deaf person we could directly stimulate areas of the brain responsible for hearing. In the blind, it could be the same."

He said he would not expect the method to give more than "gross reception" to the blind, with the device enabling a person to sense light or dark, but not shapes, depth or color.

Delgado said the device could receive signals from a photo cell which detects light much as a light meter works on a camera.

For the deaf, he said, "it's much easier and simpler. You could probably be able to receive intelligible signals."

HELEN HELP US!

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED for it, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

LET'S HEAR IT FROM THE PRE-TEENS

Dear Helen: It seems like you never have much in from the little kids—but lots about teen-agers and love and all that dumb stuff. Why don't you have a column once in a while for us? —10-YEAR-OLD Dear Ten:

Good idea. Here goes: Dear Helen: I have a big problem. Maybe it sounds silly, but my brother got a Disney story book. On the front is a picture of Goofy. My aunt asked what kind of animal he is. Someone said a cow because his girl friend is a cow. My dad said he is a horse. The rest of us said, "dog."

Please tell me which. The arguing is giving me a headache. Okay? Thank you. —MUST KNOW Dear M.K.:

We-e-e-l, Goofy can't be a horse because horses are hardly ever pictured as "goofy." There's no such thing as a male cow, and he doesn't look like a bull, so he's gotta be a dog. Okay?

I was tempted to call up and ask the "Fact Finder" at our local paper but thought better. A columnist has to think of her image, you know, and I just about blew it two weeks ago when I begged the home address of Bobby Sherman—for a 12-year-old girl who wanted me to forward her letter to him, but somehow I don't think the Fact Finder believed me. —H. Dear Helen:

I'm kind of young to be writing (I'm 11), but I have a question. You see we have school dances so I asked a girl. She said she needed a few days to think about it so I dropped her, but I'd like to know what to do in the future. —UNKNOWNING Dear Un:

Wait before you drop. Girls have a terrible time making up their minds—as you'll find out more and more as time goes on. —H. Dear Helen:

I'm twice the age of my little brother who is five, and he's ten times the trouble I am. You wouldn't believe how bad he is. He calls me names and teases me till I can't stand it. I can't hit him because he can REALLY KICK. The silent treatment won't work. I'm miserable.

Then if he does something wrong—for instance, when he put his omelet in a tissue and hid it and we found it three days later and it smelled awful—my Mom and Dad just told him never do it again. They hardly ever scold him. But But I hit him for a good reason and Dad hit me real hard and said, "He's just a baby and doesn't know any better," but he DOES know. He's just spoiled ROTTEN.

Helen, PLEASE help before I go out of my mind. —TIRED OF A WILD CHILD Dear Tired:

I guess it doesn't help much to say your letter might have been written by almost every ten-year-old sister of an age-five brother. He is at a point where only parents could love him (so they probably overdo it). He WILL grow out of this stage, but brace yourself for another bad one at age 11—when he starts teasing you about your boy friends. Meanwhile, loving patience is better than fists, though harder to achieve. —H. Dear Helen:

I am very lucky. I have a nice mother, father, sister and brother, two dogs and three cats. I wish I could help others. Could you give me the name of a good Society for Animals and tell me a good amount of money for a nine-year-old to give. —FUTURE ANIMAL WORLD-WIDE WORRIER Dear FAWWW:

How about the Humane Society in your town? (You can find the address in the phone book.) The amount? Whatever you can spare but, better yet, why not find a good home for one stray cat or dog? Maybe you can talk a friend's parents into taking in a pet. —H.

TIMELY QUOTES

For the first time in 25 years I'm seeing the world without an alcoholic haze. I'm not sure I like what I see, but at least it's a new experience. —Richard Burton, stage and screen actor, husband of Elizabeth Taylor.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Benny, with an NBC special Wednesday night, was still generating laughter with jokes about his age and his skill on the violin—apparently there is no end to the variations that can be rung on these themes.

After almost 40 years on radio and television, the vain, miserly character that Benny has evolved is still funny. And his special was as bright and amusing as the comedian himself.

The idea for Benny's second special of the season was adapted from the title of a best selling book—"Everything You've Always Wanted to Know About Jack Benny—But Were Afraid to Ask." This was just an excuse to get some of associates on stage and have some flashbacks to his fanciful past.

Phil Harris wrangled with Jack about the lyrics of a nonsense song. Lucille Ball played a 1940 Goldwyn girl.

George Burns told some outrageous lies about "the real Jack Benny" and how they met. John Wayne turned up, first as a chorus boy, then as a prop boy.

The hour was neatly pulled together by Benny's outraged reactions.

"Robert Young and the Family" earlier on CBS was a mild comedy special about subjects used so often in one form or another they have lost their freshness. There were, among others, sketches about pushy fathers of Little League players, about an efficient housewife who had almost computerized her family and two that involved the generation gap.

In Robert Young, the program had the perfect TV father-figure, an image that started with "Father Knows Best," and has come into full flower with wise, kind Dr. Marcus Welby. He didn't really have much to do except smile a lot, introduce the sketches and give some statistics about families. He seemed rather uncomfortable.

Jack Warden was effective, while Julie Sommars, Lee Grant and William Windom did the best they could with uninspired material.

"The Cat in the Hat," third in the CBS series of Dr. Seuss cartoon programs, was full of the author's engaging humor and nonsense. This time the trouble-maker was a top-hatted feline, a brash creature on the hunt for his "moss-colored, three-handled family graduation."—Dr. Seuss never explains his references.

'Thief' Leads From Wire in Spa Feature

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Thief of Bagdad led from wire to wire and won the $5,500 feature race at Oaklawn Park Wednesday by an easy seven lengths.

The five-year-old gelding, owned by W. A. Gebhardt, sped over the six furlongs of fast track in 1:11 3-5 to beat a field of eight older horses.

Thief of Bagdad, overlooked in the wagering, paid $24.60, 7.60 and $5. Husker Ace finished second to pay $5 and $3.60 and Levee So Low ran third and paid $4.40.

The Australian, who joined the list of seeded players upset in the early rounds, led two sets to one when play resumed today after darkness had halted their match Wednesday.

Drysdale will meet Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., in the quarter-finals.

Visiting Japs Make Things Look Easy

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
For it's one, two, three balls you're on at the old ball game.

The Oakland A's and Japan's Lotte Orions played an exhibition baseball game Wednesday using the three-ball walk and Charlie Finley, owner of the A's and a big booster of the innovation, must have been oh so solly.

The Japanese pitchers issued only three walks while the Oakland hurlers passed 16 and were tagged for 11 hits as the Orions made off with a 12-6 victory.

When the Orions were in the field, Japanese baseballs were used. They are slightly smaller than the U.S. variety and the seams aren't raised as much.

Another visiting Japanese team, the Tokyo Giants, took a 7-4 decision from the Kansas City Royals as Hidetake Watanabe, Shinichi Yamauchi and Tsunenori Horuchi combined on a four-hitter.

Watanabe, a 23-game winner last year, held the Royals to one run in five innings. Shigeo Nagashima, five-time Japanese batting king, had two hits, including a two-run homer, but slugging first baseman Sadaharu Oh, home run leader the last nine years and most valuable player the last five, managed only one hit in five trips.

Heavy hitting was the order of the day for the Baltimore Orioles, Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants.

After being blanked for four innings by Washington's Denny McLain, the Orioles raked him for four runs in the fifth and went on to a 14-2 rout of the Senators, spiced by Jim Hutto's grand slam.

The Dodgers got a grand slam from Wes Parker as they scored 10 times off newly acquired lefty Greg Garrett in the seventh inning and trounced the winless Cincinnati Reds 13-2.

The Giants took advantage of seven walks by California's Clyde Wright in walloping the Angels, but their attack also included Willie McCovey's first spring hit, a double, along with triples by Garry Maddox and Rich Robertson and a three-run homer by Bobby Heise.

Harmon Killebrew ran his consecutive hit string to six with his third spring homer and two singles as the Minnesota Twins downed the New York Yankees 5-2.

Matty Alou's two-run homer and a solo shot by Joe Hague overcame two homers by Detroit's Willie Horton and the St. Louis Cardinals shaded the Tigers 7-5.

Bob Robertson slammed a pair of homers in Pittsburgh's 7-5 triumph over the winless Philadelphia Phillies.

Marty Pattin, Wayne Twitcheil and Jim Slayton cooked up a six-hitter and the Milwaukee Brewers blanked San Diego 4-0.

The Houston Astros edged the New York Mets 4-3 as Denis Menke doubled twice and knocked in two runs.

The Boston Red Sox got a scare when shortstop Luis Aparicio suffered a painfully bruised knee tagging out former Chicago White Sox teammate Rich Morales on a steal attempt, but the veteran is expected to miss only one or two days. The Red Sox won 5-4 with three runs in the ninth.

The Atlanta Braves beat Montreal 6-4 with two runs in the seventh on hits by rookies Jim Brezalee and Hal Keith and Adrian Garrett's tie-breaking single, also in the seventh, gave the Chicago Cubs a 2-1 win over Cleveland.

Another visiting Japanese team, the Tokyo Giants, took a 7-4 decision from the Kansas City Royals as Hidetake Watanabe, Shinichi Yamauchi and Tsunenori Horuchi combined on a four-hitter.

Watanabe, a 23-game winner last year, held the Royals to one run in five innings. Shigeo Nagashima, five-time Japanese batting king, had two hits, including a two-run homer, but slugging first baseman Sadaharu Oh, home run leader the last nine years and most valuable player the last five, managed only one hit in five trips.

Heavy hitting was the order of the day for the Baltimore Orioles, Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants.

After being blanked for four innings by Washington's Denny McLain, the Orioles raked him for four runs in the fifth and went on to a 14-2 rout of the Senators, spiced by Jim Hutto's grand slam.

The Dodgers got a grand slam from Wes Parker as they scored 10 times off newly acquired lefty Greg Garrett in the seventh inning and trounced the winless Cincinnati Reds 13-2.

The Giants took advantage of seven walks by California's Clyde Wright in walloping the Angels, but their attack also included Willie McCovey's first spring hit, a double, along with triples by Garry Maddox and Rich Robertson and a three-run homer by Bobby Heise.

Harmon Killebrew ran his consecutive hit string to six with his third spring homer and two singles as the Minnesota Twins downed the New York Yankees 5-2.

Matty Alou's two-run homer and a solo shot by Joe Hague overcame two homers by Detroit's Willie Horton and the St. Louis Cardinals shaded the Tigers 7-5.

Bob Robertson slammed a pair of homers in Pittsburgh's 7-5 triumph over the winless Philadelphia Phillies.

Marty Pattin, Wayne Twitcheil and Jim Slayton cooked up a six-hitter and the Milwaukee Brewers blanked San Diego 4-0.

The Houston Astros edged the New York Mets 4-3 as Denis Menke doubled twice and knocked in two runs.

The Boston Red Sox got a scare when shortstop Luis Aparicio suffered a painfully bruised knee tagging out former Chicago White Sox teammate Rich Morales on a steal attempt, but the veteran is expected to miss only one or two days. The Red Sox won 5-4 with three runs in the ninth.

The Atlanta Braves beat Montreal 6-4 with two runs in the seventh on hits by rookies Jim Brezalee and Hal Keith and Adrian Garrett's tie-breaking single, also in the seventh, gave the Chicago Cubs a 2-1 win over Cleveland.

Gamecocks to Get a 2nd Chance

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Starting today the South Carolina Gamecocks get the opportunity to redeem themselves for what happened a year ago.

The Gamecocks were picked as the country's No. 1 team in the 1970 pre-season Associated Press college basketball poll, but they didn't even make it to the NCAA championship tournament.

That was because they were upset by N.C. State in the final of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament. The 1971 ACC tourney opens today and the Gamecocks have vowed to be the winner come Saturday night.

South Carolina, boasting a nine-game winning streak, is pitted against Maryland in one of the four opening ACC games. In the others, North Carolina meets Clemson, Duke tangles with N.C. State and Wake Forest battles Virginia.

The playoff of the triple tie in the Missouri Valley Conference for a berth in the NCAA tourney also starts tonight.

St. Louis and Louisville clash at Peoria, Ill., with the winner slated to meet Drake for the NCAA spot on Saturday. The latter game also will be played on the Bradley court at Peoria.

The runners-up in both the ACC and MVC are expected to be invited to the National Invitational Tourney that opens March 20 in New York.

The NIT field was increased to 12 Wednesday with the addition of Michigan, of the Big Ten, and Oklahoma, of the Big Eight. Four berths remain to be filled.

Named earlier to the NIT were Tennessee, Dayton, Syracuse, Hawaii, LaSalle, St. Bonaventure, Massachusetts, Providence, Georgia Tech and St. John's, N.Y.

The NCAA tourney, which determines the national championship won four straight years by UCLA, gets underway Saturday with nine first round games.

An afternoon doubleheader at South Bend, that will be nationally televised, opens the NCAA competition. The twin bill pairs Marquette against Miami of Ohio and Jacksonville against Western Kentucky.

The NCAA college division tourney opens tonight with six first round games at three regional sites.

In the Midwest Regional at Kirsenville, Mo., Kentucky Wesleyan meets St. Olaf and North Dakota State plays Northeast Missouri. In the West Regional at Tacoma, Seattle Pacific plays San Francisco State and Puget Sound faces Cal Poly, SLO. In the Great Lakes Regional at Evansville, Ind., Central Michigan takes on Augustana, Ill., and Ashland of Ohio is pitted against Evansville.

The other regionals, involving the remainder of the 32 teams in the college division tourney, start Friday night.

In the only action on the courts Wednesday, Kentucky State, the defending champions, led the way into the quarterfinals of the small college NAIA tourney at Kansas City. The Thorobreds whipped Central Washington 73-59.

Also advancing to the round of eight in the NAIA were Elizabeth City, N.C. State, Grambling, Eau Claire, Eastern Michigan, Fairmont, W.Va. State, North Carolina A&T and Stephen F. Austin.

Knicks Get the Royal Treatment

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cincinnati gave the New York Knicks the royal treatment to stay on the Hawks' tail.

The Royals blew a 17-point third period lead, then woke up to whip the Knicks 120-118 in overtime Wednesday night and remain within reach of Atlanta in the battle for the runner-up playoff berth in the National Basketball Association's Central Division.

The second-place Hawks trampled Phoenix 139-98 in the only other NBA game. In the night's two American Basketball Association contests, Indiana overhauled Memphis 122-113 and the Floridians squeezed by Denver 116-113.

Nate Archibald was the Royals' savior, erupting for seven of his 14 points in the overtime period after the Knicks knotted the count 104-100 with two seconds to play in regulation time on Willis Reed's basket.

Tom van Arsdale of Cincinnati topped all scorers with 31 points, followed by Sam Lacey's 28. Dave DeBusschere had 29 and Reed and Dick Barnett added 27 apiece for New York.

Atlanta Coach Richie Guerin was ecstatic about the performance of rookie Pete Maravich, who hit 13 of 22 field goal attempts and 11 of 13 from the foul line for 37 points, and added nine assists in the 35 minutes he played.

With just six games to play—one less than Cincinnati—the Hawks have a 2½-game edge. But the Royals have an edge of their own. They've beaten Atlanta in three-out-of-five meetings this season with one more coming—Saturday in Cincinnati.

Phoenix grabbed a quick 11-4 lead against Atlanta, then failed to score a point while the Hawks got 14 of them. By the half the Hawks were on top 75-51 and they lengthened it to 40 points in the final period.

the sinking Suns, two games behind second-place Chicago in the Midwest Division.

The Indiana Pacers crept within 1½ games of first-place Utah in the ABA West as they stormed back from an 18-point deficit in the second period. They finally tied Memphis midway in the third quarter and, after a seesaw struggle, went ahead to stay in the closing seconds of the period.

Indiana's Bob Netolicky had 32 and Mel Daniels added 29 while Steve Jones was the Pros' top man with 25.

A couple of former Denver Rockets combined to haunt their former teammates in the Floridians' triumph. With the score knotted 111-111, Lonnie Wright canned a three-point basket. Then, after Denver cut the gap to a single point, Larry Jones sealed the victory with two free throws. Wright finished with 26 points to top the winners. Denver's Larry Cannon had 35.

Dodgers Were Surprise of Season

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — When the 1970 baseball season was over and all the figuring figured, the Cincinnati Reds were unquestionably the best hitting team in the National League with a team batting average of .2703.

The big surprise was that the Los Angeles Dodgers batted .2702.

And in that lay the Dodgers' dilemma. As a team they had collected 1,515 hits—the most in Walt Alston's 17-year stewardship—but they also collected only 87 homers, the lowest total in the major leagues.

It was enough to account for their second-place finish behind the Reds, and enough to provoke the decision to reach out for the missing ingredient—power.

Power this year is spelled Rich Allen.

The controversial slugger, moving to his third team in three years, came to the Dodgers from St. Louis in a major off-season trade that cost Los Angeles' second baseman Ted Sizemore but brought them a bat that accounted for 34 homers and 101 runs batted in.

That by itself is enough to make the Reds wary of the Dodgers in the race for the Western Division title.

"I'm pretty positive we've helped our offensive side," Alston says with considerable satisfaction.

The search for power also precipitated the trade with Cleveland for catcher-outfielder Duke Sims, who slugged 23 homers last season, and has Alston experimenting at several positions as he does every spring.

No matter how the experimenting works out, however, the Dodgers are legitimate title threats. They were that even before Allen and Sims arrived on the scene. The reasons are many:

There is first baseman Wes Parker, a slick fielding .319 hitter.

There is Willie Davis, the speed merchant center fielder with a .305 stick and legs that stole 38 bases.

There is old Maury Wills, a sparkplug at shortstop who at 38 still hit .270.

There is young Bill Grabarkewitz, who made Sizemore expendable with a .289 bat that produced 17 homers.

And there is pitching strength in Bill Singer, Don Sutton and Claude Osteen.

If Alston has any doubts, however, it is about the pitching because Singer suffered a fractured finger at the tail end of 1970 after recovering from hepatitis and because the search for additional pitching strength involves untested youngsters.

"I really don't know how the pitching will end up," Alston explained. "But then it could end up better than we figure."

That would involve strong performances by the Big Three—Singer, Sutton and Osteen—plus a breakthrough by one of the youngsters. The best bets are Mike Strahler, 15-5 with a 2.98 earned run average at Spokane and Doyle Alexander, 9-7 with a 3.61 ERA at Spokane after earning promotion from Albuquerque. Also, there veteran Southpaw Al Downing, acquired from Milwaukee in a deal for outfielder Andy Kosko.

As for the line-up juggling, it involves four positions—catch-

Starting Spots at Stake in Carolina

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — The pole position and 14 other choice starting spots in Sunday's Carolina 500 stock car race were at stake today as qualifying runs opened at North Carolina Motor Speedway.

Among favorites for the $1,000 that goes to the pole winner were the Chrysler factory tandem of Richard Petty in a Plymouth and Buddy Baker in a Dodge; LeRoy Yarborough in a Mercury; Fred Lorenzen and Pete Hamilton, in Plymouths; and Bobby Isaac, Dick Brooks and Bobby Allison, in Dodges.

Some 25 drivers drew assignments in the time trials beginning at 1 p.m. A morning practice session also was scheduled. After today's initial qualifying session, the field will be open to 15 more drivers Friday. The final 10 in the 40-car field will be decided Saturday.

er, second, third and an outfield spot. It's not that the talent isn't there, but that there's an abundance of versatility.

The catching spot is filled by Tom Haller and Sims but includes Bill Sudakis, also working at third with Steve Garvey, who hit .269 as a rookie. Also in the sweepstakes is Jim LeFebvre, both at second and third.

Bob Valentine, who hit .340 at Spokane, is another getting a long look in the infield as is Bill Russell, who hit .363 with Spokane and .259 with the Dodgers.

Russell also figures in the outfield battle for the right field berth—Allen will play left—a long with Manny Mota, who hit .305 last season, Willie Crawford, Von Joshua and Sims.

"It's just a matter," said Alston, "of fitting the right men to the needs."

The leftovers will provide bench strength, another commodity for pennant contention—and another commodity that figures to get the Dodgers serious consideration in preseason pennant estimates, despite the awesome Reds.

This club definitely can go all the way.

Esposito Has Goal to Go for Record

By ERIC PREWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — Phil Esposito needs one more goal to break the National Hockey League season scoring record and get his Boston Bruins teammates off his back.

The big center scored No. 58 Wednesday night, tying Bobby Hull's record, in an 8-1 victory over the California Golden Seals. He'll try to pass Hull, his onetime Chicago Black Hawks teammate, tonight in Los Angeles when the Bruins play the Kings.

Esposito got his record-tying goal at 13:39 of the second period on an unassisted play after stealing the puck behind the Seals' net. In the final period, his teammates nearly wore him out trying to feed him for No. 59.

"They didn't feed me any more than usual until the last period. I finally told them, 'Listen, buzz off me,'" the tired star said later.

In other Wednesday night NHL games, Toronto beat Montreal 2-1, New York downed Chicago 4-2, Minnesota beat St. Louis 4-0 and Philadelphia and Pittsburgh played to a 2-2 tie.

Bobby Orr of the Bruins broke one of his own league records by scoring two goals against the Seals, making his season total 34. He set the old record for goals by a defense-

On ice, Esposito tied up the race between him and Esposito for the NHL scoring title by adding an assist. He now has 119 points and Esposito has 125.

Both players are sure to break the NHL season record of 126 that Esposito set two years ago.

Ne and the 10,411 fans in the Oakland Arena thought he'd tied the record early in the second period when he banged a 30-foot shot past goalie Gary Smith.

He leaped into the air waving his stick and came down to see referee Ron Wicks signaling a penalty against Wayne Cashman that nullified the goal.

The Bruins, Eastern Division leaders, broke an NHL record for most points in a season by winning Wednesday night. They lead the standings with 105 points. They had tied the record of 103, set by Montreal in 1968-69, with a victory over St. Louis last Sunday.

Guy Gendron tipped in a third-period goal that gave Philadelphia a vital tie against Pittsburgh. Gendron got a piece of Andre Lacroix' shot and steered it into the Penguin net.

The tie kept Philadelphia four points ahead of fifth-place Pittsburgh in the battle for a West Division playoff spot. Gary Dornhoefer scored the Flyers' other goal while Jean Pronovost and Ron Schock had Pittsburgh's goals.

Norm Ullman's 30th goal of the season broke a third-period tie and eased Toronto past Montreal. Rookie Denis Dupere had his first NHL goal for the Leafs and John Ferguson, as-essed a rare triple minor penalty, connected for Montreal.

Ferguson received a hooking penalty and a double minor for roughing at 12:20 of the first period. He also had the only other triple minor assessed in NHL history, that one on Dec. 7, 1967 against Detroit.

New York used third-period goals by Rod Gilbert and Bob Nevin to whip Chicago. The victory stretched the Rangers' unbeaten streak to nine games and snapped a six-game non-winning string for the Black Hawks.

Pete Stenkowski, who scored with just one second left in the first period, and Walt Tkaczuk had the other New York goals with Dennis Hull and Stan Mikita hitting for Chicago.

The loss prevented the Black Hawks from nailing down the NHL's West Division crown, but they moved a step closer to it when Minnesota blanked St. Louis behind Cesare Maniago.

Maniago kicked out 35 shots for his fourth shutout and the North Stars got a pair of goals by Bill Goldsworthy to nail down the victory.

Man Held in Death of Arkansas Girl

NEW YORK (AP) — A 29-year-old laborer has been arrested in connection with the stabbing death of former show-girl-model Sarah Naomi Wallman Belle in her Upper West Side hotel room Sunday.

Police said the suspect, Ulysses Thomas, lived two floors below Mrs. Belle, 37, at the Hotel Chalfonte. He was charged with homicide and first-degree robbery.

The police said Thomas lived with his common-law wife and their seven children at the hotel. Police alleged that Thomas went to Mrs. Belle's apartment after she verbally abused one of the children.

Police said Thomas was captured in a Harlem apartment Wednesday night after a battle with two detectives.

Mrs. Belle, a former entertainer and model and a former Hot Springs, Ark., resident, was the former wife of Earl Belle, who returned here to plead guilty to stock fraud charges in the 1960s after fleeing to Brazil in the 1950s.

Mrs. Belle was indicted with Lowell M. Birrell and another person in 1969 in a bank loan fraud case. The charges against Mrs. Belle were dropped, but Birrell was convicted. Mrs. Belle was reportedly employed as a secretary for Birrell when she died.

Vote-at-18 Breezes Past Senate

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With backing from leaders of both parties, a constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 in all elections has breezed through the Senate in a race for approval before the 1972 elections.

Proponents say the amendment is needed to prevent the expense and confusion of dual-election systems. Currently, all 18-year-olds may vote in federal elections, but persons under 21 cannot vote in state and local elections except in nine states.

Next test for the amendment is the House where it is expected to gain approval next week, or shortly thereafter. Senate approval came on a 94-0 vote Wednesday.

To become law, the amendment will have to be ratified by 38 of the 50 state legislatures.

Adoption of the amendment would mean about 11 million young people between the ages of 18 and 21 could register as voters in all elections.

Congress voted last year to lower the voting age to 18 in all elections, but the Supreme Court ruled the law was unconstitutional except for federal elections. The court held such a change be made only by amending the Constitution.

Only Alaska, Georgia and Kentucky have lowered the voting age for all elections to 18. In six other states the voting age has been cut to 19 or 20.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., floor manager for the proposed amendment, said speedy action by the House is important because of next year's elections.

He said about 25 state legislatures meeting now will be out of session by the end of April and not all of them will meet next year.

In other action Wednesday, the Senate, by a 68-23 vote, tabled and thus killed another proposed constitutional amendment to give the District of Columbia full voting representation in Congress.

First Degree Murder Is Charged

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Charges of first-degree murder were filed Wednesday in two separate shooting deaths last weekend in Union County.

One charge was filed against Gaylon Washington, 15, of El Dorado in connection with the shooting death of Darrell C. Carey, 15, of El Dorado.

Carey was shot to death Sunday night at Washington's home during an apparent argument over a domino game.

The other charge was filed against Oscar McElroy and Emon McElroy, both of Lou Ann (Ouachita County), in connection with the slaying of their uncle, Bill McElroy, 55, of Smackover, who was found dead on a county road 18 miles west of El Dorado Saturday.

Air Taxi Accidents Decline

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says it is safer not to ride in air taxis than a year ago when supervision was tightened on the smaller planes, but it's still far more hazardous than flying in larger commercial airliners.

The number of deaths in air-taxi accidents dropped from 135 in 1969 to 103 in 1970. In comparison, no one died in crashes of big, regularly scheduled airlines within the 50 states in 1970.

A darker note is the number of fatal accidents involving air taxis increased from 27 in 1969 to 35 in 1970.

A Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said it "is certain that in general air-taxi operations are more business-like, more efficient and safer than a year ago."

The National Transportation Safety Board, which called for tougher air-taxi rules in 1968, said it agrees.

"The new rules put a number of fly-by-night operators, and those operating infrequently," out of the air-taxi business, the spokesman said.

"Over the past year, air-taxi operations have shown a most encouraging trend with regard to their growth and reliability," said Joseph A. Ferrarese, chief of operations of the FAA's flight standards service.

A spokesman for the safety board said part of the improvement in safety and operations stems from a March 1968 letter from the board to the FAA calling for more stringent supervision of the air-taxi industry. In line with the board, the FAA last April imposed a series of airline-type rules on air taxis.

It required that every plane with 10 or more seats be manned by two pilots, regardless of the number of passengers, and that any taxi operator flying without a co-pilot be limited to eight hours' duty per day.

Under the tougher rules the number of air-taxi firms declined from 4,704 in 1969 to 3,282 in 1970 while the number of aircraft operated as taxis dropped from 7,797 to 5,846. At the end of 1970 FAA records listed 198 firms as offering scheduled air-taxi service.

State Second in Number of TB Cases

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association reported Wednesday that Arkansas ranked second in the number of new tuberculosis cases reported in the U.S. in 1969.

During the same period, Arkansas ranked fourth in the death rate for the disease.

Arkansas reported 577 new cases in 1969 — second only to Alabama with 1,203 cases. Ninety-six persons died of the disease during the year.

The number of cases of TB dropped to 483 in the state last year, but national comparison figures were not available.

out dissent four of Bumpers' prison reform bills.

The House passed a bill establishing a presidential primary election in Arkansas and moving the state's political primaries back by more than a month.

Senate action on the penitentiary bills brought to six the number of Bumpers' prison measures the senators have approved.

Approved 30-0 was a bill to establish a work-release program under which up to about 200 select inmates would be allowed to obtain jobs or attend school away from prison during the day.

The Senate voted 33-0 to approve a bill to establish a special camp for male first offenders under the age of 21. The third of the four bills that was approved would substitute existing law with a more liberalized system governing the amount of unserved time that may be deducted for good behavior from an inmate's sentence. The vote was 34-0.

The fourth measure, approved 30-0, would create a position, to be filled by a lawyer, for a full-time researcher to assist the Board of Pardons and Paroles in deciding which inmates deserve release.

The presidential primary bill, approved 89-0 by the House, would set the political party runoff primary elections on the second Tuesday in July with the first primary coming two weeks earlier. The runoff primary is now held on the second Tuesday of September with the first primary set two weeks earlier.

The presidential primary would be held on the same date as the new first primary. The bill also would require the election of 80 per cent of the delegates to national party nominating conventions on the same date as the first primary. The other 20 per cent of the delegates would be selected by the state committees of the political parties.

Rep. Ode Maddox of Oden, sponsor of the administration proposal, said U.S. Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., was responsible for much of the work that went into the bill. The House decided 70-14 to amend a proposed constitutional amendment by Sen. Joe Foweraker of Little Rock that would establish four-year terms for constitutional officers and county officials. The amendment, offered by Rep. Gean McDonald of Sheridan, would provide four-year terms for state representatives, who now serve two years. Senators already have four-year terms.

The House rejected for the second time a bill that would have prevented the construction of dams on the Saline River, which flows through Central Arkansas. The vote was 49-7, with 51 votes needed for passage. McDonald, the sponsor of the bill, said the proposal would prevent the Army Engineers from damming the river. The Benton Chamber of Commerce has asked the engineers to revive a proposal for building a dam on the river about two miles north of Benton.

Rep. Lacy Landers of Benton, opposing the bill, said there would be an eventual need for the construction of a reservoir on the Saline to provide the city of Benton with an adequate water supply.

The House completed legislative action on Bumpers' bill extending greater home rule powers to the cities by agreeing to three Senate amendments to the measure. One would limit a city's power to levy an income tax to a flat percentage of the state income tax paid, prohibiting a graduated income tax varying with the amount of state tax paid.

The representatives also concurred in a Senate amendment to a bill establishing a code of ethics for public officials and employees. The amendment would require candidates for public office, as well as officeholders, to disclose their business holdings.

The House approved a Senate amendment to a motor vehicle licensing bill to restore the slogan "Land of Opportunity" to license tags. The bill would require the licensing of cars between Jan. 1 and Feb. 15 and trucks from July 1-July 31, replacing the existing year-around licensing system, adopted in 1967, when the slogan was dropped from the tags.

The House voted 76-5 to approve a bill by Rep. Lloyd McCuiston of West Memphis to seize the West Memphis dog racing track's one-third share of odd-cent breakage on bets at Southland Park and unclaimed winning tickets.

The track's share of the odd-cents pool would be transferred to the city of West Memphis, giving the city two thirds of the breakage. The state would continue to receive a third.

The bill would give the track's share of unclaimed winning tickets to the city, with the state and Crittenden County continuing to receive a third each. The House approved 80-0 a bill appropriating $97,000 to pay the expenses of the Senate during the extended portion of the legislative session.

Passed 74-1 by the representatives was a bill by Reps. J. K. Mahony II of El Dorado and Wayne Hampton of Stuttgart creating an office of arts and humanities in the state Planning Department. The office would develop statewide arts and humanities programs.

In other actions, the Senate: — Approved 21-11 and sent to the House a bill by Sen. J. A. Womack of Camden to allow First Arkansas Bankstock Corp. of Little Rock to take in a bank at Stephens. The agreement for the Stephens bank to join the bank holding company had been negotiated prior to the approval of a bill to forbid further development of bank holding companies in the state. — Approved 32-2 the administration's weakened bill to limit political campaign expenditures. Sen. Ben Allen of Little Rock, the bill's sponsor, said the bill actually did not accomplish much of the original intention of the governor. An earlier bill was withdrawn after being heavily amended. The bill approved by the Senate would set a limit of 30 cents per voter in the general election campaigns of candidates for constitutional offices. The same limit would apply for candidates for the same offices in the party primaries.

— Approved 22-5 a bill by Sen. W. D. Moore Jr. of El Dorado to provide for collective bargaining between cities and firemen and to establish procedures for arbitration of issues not settled by the collective bargaining.

— Defeated 14-9 a bill by Sen. Virgil T. Fletcher of Benton, who said the measure was designed to bring quarterhorse racing under regulation of the state Racing Commission. Other senators said, however, that quarterhorse racing was illegal in the state when conducted for a purse and that Fletcher's bill would not change that.

— Defeated 5-26 a bill by Sen. Guy H. "Mutt" Jones of Conway to require the state Highway Department to add 900 miles of county roads to the state highway system.

El Dorado Man Guilty of Manslaughter

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — John T. Gray, 29, of El Dorado was found guilty Wednesday of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the shooting death of J. M. Peterson, 31, of El Dorado.

Peterson was shot to death with a .32-caliber pistol on Easter Sunday last year near an El Dorado cafe. A Circuit Court jury deliberated just over two hours Wednesday evening before returning the verdict. Sentence was recommended at five years in prison. Gray had been charged with first-degree murder.

Defense attorney Bob Compton attempted to show Wednesday that Peterson had been drinking the morning of the shooting and had threatened to kill Gray and his brother-in-law.

Oliver Cromwell was called the "uncrowned king" of England.

PERSONAL FINANCE

After you're all through making out your income tax return this year—better go over it again, because the odds are three to one that you've given yourself too much tax to pay.

Recheck the seven items on the list below and you'll pick up the tax savings missed by a majority of taxpayers, according to the man who quotes the three-to-one odds. He's Richard Block, chairman of the board of H & R Block Co., whose 5,000 offices around the country prepared about nine million returns last year.

On the basis of that large sample, says Block, three in four of the people who've tried to figure their own taxes have made mistakes—in Uncle Sam's favor. The increasing complexity of tax regulations and tax forms seems to be the reason.

Check these seven times, though, and you'll probably pick up half or more of your overpayments. Under the heading of "Deductions":

• Contributions of property. Block estimates that half of all taxpayers miss this opportunity. It includes not only the castoffs you bundle off to the Salvation Army or similar charities, but anything of value that you donate to rummage sales or for the use of a church, school or other religious, charitable or educational organization.

But be careful about overvaluing used and worn items. It's safest to get a written receipt for your donations, with an appraisal of value by the recipient.

• Medical transportation. Don't forget that the cost of getting to and from the doctor's or dentist's office is part of your health-care expense. You can include actual costs of public transportation, or prorated mileage costs for use of the family car, plus parking fees, etc.

• Interest on charge accounts and credit cards. Under a tax court ruling of a few weeks ago, says Block, what had formerly been held to be "service charges" are now, in most cases, deductible as interest. They typically run 1 1/2 per cent a month, or 18 per cent a year, and in many families they'll be sizable.

• Assumed interest. When you pay off any obligation in installments, it's assumed you're paying interest—whether or not there is anything in the contract or agreement that says so.

For example, if you're billed $500 for surgery and arrange with your doctor to pay it off at $100 a month, you can deduct interest on the unpaid balance at a 6 per cent per annum rate. Another example—tuition fees paid off in installments.

• Auto license fees. Reading the tax-return instructions gives the impression that these are generally non-deductible. "The IRS doesn't like to publicize it," says Block, "but in fact a part of the fee is deductible in many states."

In which states, and how much in each one, is information that's hard to come by unless you read this column, and we make it easy. Says Richard Block: "Call the nearest H & R Block office; no charge for the service."

In addition to those taxpayers under the heading of "Deductions," check these two:

• Sick pay. A real saver, since it's an "adjustment to income" and reduces $1 for $1, the amount of income on which you're taxed. A little complicated, but worth studying the instructions if you were all work because of sickness five days or more last year.

• Educational expenses. They're considerably liberalized this year. Check the instructions to see whether any of your expenses qualify.

MONEY CLIPS

by Mort Reed

Few U.S. coins have endured more than their required 25-year longevity without experiencing at least one noticeable change in design. The gold Double-Eagle ($20), for example, suffered the pangs of two major corrections in the first 27 of its 58-year existence.

This, the greatest of American gold coins both in size and value, was designed by James Barton Longacre in accordance with provisions of the Coinage Act of March 3, 1849. And as usual, since he preferred working from real life rather than a model, his daughter, Sarah, posed for the obverse profile.

The typical Longacre flair for the exotic as demonstrated on the Flying Eagle cent, the Indian-head cent, the Two-cent and Three-cent pieces, and the Five-cent Shield nickel, is surpassed only by the highly ornate reverse of the Double-Eagle.

What appears to be the outline of an ornate shield is actually an elaborate scroll bearing the motto "E PLURIBUS UNUM," behind which stands an eagle bearing the Union Shield on his breast and holding the conventional arrows and olive branch in his talons.

An oval of 13 six-point stars lies within a rayed glory above his head and the entire device is circumscribed by the issuing authority and the denomination "Twenty D."

The coronet type Double-Eagle measuring 1 5/16 inches in diameter, was reeded on the edge and weighed 516 grains, an attractive, convenient circulating medium well-accepted by the trading public. But because there was considerable concern among the general public in the area of religion following the Civil War, Congress was pressured into the addition of the motto "IN GOD WE TRUST" on all coinage.

In 1876 the reverse dies were changed to incorporate this phrase and the first pieces issued in 1877 displayed it within the 13-star oval above the eagle's head. But alas, this type was short-lived.

After 18,161,143 pieces were struck for general circulation, the reverse die again was changed to reconstruct the announced denomination. The word TWENTY was reduced in size and moved up and to the left to make room for the word DOLLARS. A very costly adjustment only because it was not done when the first addition was made one year earlier.

The new Double Eagle minted from 1877 to 1907 involved some 16.5 million pieces plus 2,311 proofs. And while the design gave way to Saint-Gaudens Standing Liberty in 1907, there was no increase or reduction in the size, weight or fineness until its discontinuance under the Gold Act of Jan. 30, 1934.

Although there was only one specimen of the 1849 coin struck and presently housed in the U.S. Mint collection, the rarest date available is the 1883 Proof of which there were 10 minted and valued at $9,000 apiece.

Free Coin Order Blanks

Coin World, the collectors' newspaper, has made another very fine gesture to readers of this column. Realizing that many Money Clip followers do not have an opportunity to purchase U.S. mint sets when they are made available by the Treasury, editors of Coin World called to say they would send a reasonable number of requested 1971 Mint set order forms to anyone sending them a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Annually the Mint offers sets of uncirculated current issue coinage to the general public on a first-come first-serve basis. The 1971 set consists of 11 coins. 1—50-cent, 1—25-cent, 1—10-cent, 1—5-cent and 1—1-cent from the Denver Mint; 1—50-cent, 1—25-cent, 1—10-cent, 1—5-cent, and 1—1-cent from the Philadelphia Mint and a 1-cent piece from the U.S. Assay office in San Francisco.

The coins from each mint are housed in a polyethylene envelope and shipped to the purchaser via first-class registered mail. The 11-coin set including the postage fees sells for $3.50 with a limit of five sets per person.

The new 1971 clad-Kennedy half-dollar will make its appearance in this year's Mint set.

Beware of Pottery With a Lead Glaze

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I read about a family which had lead poisoning from drinking from an old pitcher. They kept fruit juice in it all the time. If a person got lead poisoning from drinking from this pitcher, would this cause them to be sick for a long time or kill them? What are the symptoms? Please write a few lines on lead poisoning.

Dear Reader—Yes, there have been several accounts recently on the problem you mention. Young children sometimes get lead poisoning from picking paint off old buildings. One account estimates that as many as 20,000 children were afflicted this way in New York City in one year. Fortunately, only two died.

The hidden source of lead poisoning is glazed pottery used for cooking or storing food or drink. Lead glazes make beautiful pottery and are used in making ceramics. A report in the New England Journal of Medicine recently reported the episode you refer to. Two young boys had been drinking apple juice from a lead-glazed pitcher and one of them died. Earth-enware pottery bought in Mexico can be a real health hazard. Don't use any earthenware for food unless you know it is not coated with a lead glaze. WATCH OUT, TOO, FOR THOSE CERAMIC UTENSILS MADE IN CRAFTS AT SCHOOL. Your child may be pleased to see you use a cup he made, but you may be gradually poisoning yourself.

Lead poisoning causes a lot of different symptoms, including anemia, headaches, irritability and a dark line on the gums.

Abdominal pain and digestive disturbances, including nausea and vomiting, may occur. Painters using lead paints often have this problem and they may even have pain similar to appendicitis.

The brain may be affected, too. This usually occurs in young children. The child may have convulsions. Mental confusion can occur with gradual poisoning. Some people are left with perma-

Z and Y the old auction players have adopted modern bidding methods with great enthusiasm although not always with the most approved results.

Thus Z's two-club call was their only forcing open. West jammed them up with his four no-trump call which was the unusual no-trump to show both minor suits, but Y was not going to be shut out. He bid five spades and Z bid six hearts.

Z looked over dummy carefully. "I think I played one just like this in a Sidney Lenz article back around 1925. It is just as well that I am declarer."

He took his ace of diamonds and played the ace of hearts. When West showed out Z remarked, "Yes indeed. Everything begins to fall in place."

He promptly cashed dummy's ace, king and queen of spades in order to discard his losing diamonds. Then he ruffed a fourth spade to reduce his trump holding to the same number as East.

Next came the ace and king of clubs followed by a ruff of his last club in dummy. Then he led another spade. East ruffed with the seven. Z overruffed and led his six of hearts. East won with the eight but had to lead a heart to give Z the last two tricks.

Welfare Reform Sought in New York

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Persons entering a community expressly for welfare benefits could be turned away with token aid and a ticket home under a welfare reform package being considered by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Highly placed sources in state government said Tuesday the plan also may contain a proposal to put all able-bodied welfare recipients to work—even if the state has to create the jobs.

The token aid and ticket home approach was considered by many lawmakers to be a variation of the residency requirements frowned on by the courts as denying equal protection to all citizens.

The approach would establish the health and welfare of the community as the key factor in determining who should receive benefits. A newcomer without a job or home applying for welfare could be denied a listing on the welfare rolls if it were found, for example, that no housing was available without dangerous overcrowding.

The person then could be given emergency aid and a ticket home. This could apply whether the newcomer came from inside or outside the state.

Students Plan March, Rally

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — A March and rally was to be held today by students at Arkansas AM&N College at Pine Bluff to voice opposition to a proposed bill in the Arkansas Legislature that would merge Arkansas AM&N with the University of Arkansas.

The rally was to be held at 1 p.m. on a campus parking lot. Woodson Walker, president of the AM&N student body, said a march to the civic center downtown would follow the rally.

The USS Columbia was the first ship to carry the U.S. flag around the world.

Success Formula of Career Girl

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Food and Nutrition Editor

Do these things spell success to the modern woman—an expensive apartment on New York's fashionable Sutton Place, a country home in Westport, Conn., a yacht moored at the Cedar Point Yacht Club, memberships in important business and social clubs and frequent trips abroad, plus every symbol of approval by the Establishment?

To Sally Dickson these do spell success. To many others, particularly today's more restless women, they do not.

Sally Dickson Associates is a public relations firm founded 27 years ago in New York and owned by Sally Dickson and her partner Joyce Clarke. It employs 22 women and one man and has a carload of blue chip clients. "When I was a young girl I had no interest in a business career," Miss Dickson says. "I was planning to become an anthropologist. But somehow I landed in the business world and I'm still in it. I must admit I do enjoy it and appreciate the contributions business makes to mankind."

When Rachel Carson published her book "Silent Spring," attacking pesticide pollution, Sally Dickson Associates distributed material on the subject for large food corporations.

"We wanted to explain the problems faced by business, to distribute industrial facts to the nervous public and to refute many of Miss Carson's statements," she explains, adding:

"We also watch everything Ralph Nader does. Our job is to keep the business world alerted to threats that are unjustified. We feel that business is a force for good. It should not be harassed by any emotionally inspired attacks."

She believes many of the approaches of women's lib are undignified. "Certainly I agree with their battle for equal salaries and equal opportunities. I certainly am aware of the intellectual capacities of women that are not being developed.

"But women must be willing to shoulder more responsibility if they wish to compete successfully with men. It's one thing to cry for more opportunity. But that means willingness to skip dinner at home some nights, to travel on a moment's notice, to work late hours on projects, to attend meetings that are dull. Sometimes I think women want to establish a plateau for themselves and then sit on it."

and evil world." In its appeal, Arkansas argued the state is immune to such legal action under provisions of the 11th Amendment, which guarantees state sovereignty.

During hearings that led to Judge Henley's order, testimony was submitted as to inhumane treatment in isolation cells, the use of armed trustees to control other prisoners, poor living and working conditions and a lack of adequate institutional care.

Michael Wilson of the Arkansas attorney general's office said the state is "more than aware of the problems in the penal system" but said nearly all the ordered remedies require more money.

The Arkansas Legislature increased the prison system appropriation last year, and reports of improvements have been submitted to Judge Henley.

"The court, in effect, ordered an appropriation from the state legislature in the amount of $4 million," Wilson said. "He (Henley) takes the whole penitentiary system and says this is not good enough."

"Something had to be done about it," Appellate Judge M.C. Mathes commented. "The legislature hadn't seen fit to do anything about it."

ond to Pennsylvania among the nation's highest rates. It would yield $10 million a year in new revenue. The measure had been approved 27-6 last week by the Senate.

The House action wound up the legislature's work on all measures in the administration's revised $27.3 million tax package except a proposal, designed to produce $1.1 million a year, that would reduce the discount merchants receive for collecting the sales tax from 2 to 1 per cent.

The discount bill has been approved by both houses, but still awaits Senate concurrence in a Bumpers-opposed House amendment that would give merchants a sales tax reduction for bad debts.

Bumpers said Wednesday, as he had before, that he would veto the bill if the amendment is not removed. He said the change would cost the state $500,000.

Opponents of the cigarette tax increase claimed that the measure could lead to a loss of revenue.

Both Reps. Walter Day and Charles Lutes of Blytheville said the increase would invite bootlegging from other states and from the exchanges of the Little Rock and Blytheville Air Force Bases, where cigarettes sell for much less than the going rate in the state.

Rep. Albert "Tom" Collier of Newport foresaw a loss of revenue from another source — the roll-your-own cigarette making device.

Collier demonstrated one such machine to the House saying that smokers could use it to turn out filter cigarettes for 20 cents a package. He said the tobacco in the homemade product would escape the cigarette tax.

Collier produced a homemade as he spoke against the Bumpers bill and invited Rep. W. R. Nicholson of Osceola to test it. "This thing ain't no good," said Nicholson, an ally of Collier in opposition to the tax bill.

But Rep. James Matthews of Dumas told the House that smokers would continue to buy cigarettes even if the price went to $1 a package. On the other hand, he said, higher prices might discourage youngsters from smoking.

Opponents of the bill objected that the legislature increased the cigarette tax by 4½ cents in 1969. Rep. Cecil Alexander of Heber Springs said smokers would be overtaxed.

He also said that Bumpers had at first promised a tax package that was the "fair way" to meet the state's financial needs, but that the governor had "strayed" from his original revenue program by introducing the five-cent increase.

Bumpers proposed the tax when he renovated his original $26 million package by withdrawing two proposals and compromising on his income tax bill by lowering the tax on the highest income brackets from 9 to 7 per cent.

Several supporters of the increase urged approval so the legislature would not be faced with the prospect of a half per cent increase in the sales tax, which is being pushed in the General Assembly.

Europeans Doubt U.S. Cooperation

By VERN HAUGHLAND

AP Aviation Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — European space leaders today questioned whether the United States seeks international cooperation or a virtual monopoly in space exploration.

Herman Bondie, chief scientific adviser to Great Britain's ministry of defense, an former director general of the European Space Research Organization, said the future of international space exploration is doubtful.

"Much of Europe has a deep fear that the United States will use its newly acquired launching capability to grant its space industry a virtual monopoly in commercially valuable space exploration," he said.

Yves Demerliac, secretary general of the European industrial Combine called Eurospace, added in prepared remarks today that the recent U.S. developments have "created the feeling in Europe that space cooperation with the United States might become unstable or difficult."

"Some reassuring words and steps in this respect would certainly be seasonable," he said during a symposium on international space cooperation.

Demerliac said this concern arose in part from the Department of Transportation takeover from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration of the program to develop an air traffic control satellite, and the Defense Department's growing interest in NASA's space shuttle program.

"Specialization and international cooperation is visualized with some apprehension by the European industry in particular "because the International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium—Intelsat—has been far from satisfactory," he said.

On expressing the concern over U.S. space intentions Bondie said this fear "is reinforced by the experience of Intelsat which, with 52 per cent U.S. capital, has spent 92 per cent of its money in the United States."

R.C. di Carrobbio of Italy, secretary general of the European Launcher Development Organization said, "Very frankly, I must tell you that we in Europe . . . have to ask ourselves if, on this side of the Atlantic, a wish really still exists to realize a cooperation of the kind which was envisaged."

"For myself, I should like to be optimistic."

without incident.

Some of the students at the rally carried placards saying "we want to determine our own destiny," and "we're trying the Democratic way."

Following the rally, the group marched five abreast for about three miles to the Civic Center where various student leaders urged the college to retain racial identity and resist any merger attempts.

The merger bill has been passed by the Arkansas House and is pending in the Senate.

Nixon Urges Prison, Court Reforms

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)

—President Nixon urged today reform of the nation's courts and prisons "to resolve conflict speedily but fairly, to reverse the trend toward crime and violence, to re-instill a respect for law in all our people."

In an address prepared for the National Conference on the Judiciary here, Nixon also came out in opposition to the filming of judicial proceedings and of the introduction of live television to the courtroom.

And he applauded judges who cracked down on courtroom disrupters—judges "who insist on order in their courts and who will not be bullied or stampeded by those who hold in contempt all this nation's judicial system stands for."

Nixon endorsed the idea of using "paraprofessionals in the law" to relieve judges of the handling of minor cases.

Bomb Force to Be Cut by One-Third

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is planning to cut its B52 bomber force in the Indochina war by about one-third in the coming year.

This almost certainly will mean a significant reduction in the number of B52 sorties, now averaging 1,000 a month. A sortie is a single flight by a single plane.

The tip-off came in a list of reshuffling actions announced Wednesday by the Air Force. The B52 plan for Indochina was confirmed by Defense and Air Force officials.

Air Force said a total of 51 B52s will be returned from Thailand by March 31, 1972, to form the 486th Bomb Squadron at Carswell Air Force Base in Texas.

Fifty one B52s are posted at U Tapao in Thailand and repeatedly strike infiltration routes in Laos as well as targets in South Vietnam and Cambodia.

The scaling down of B52 operations is in step with President Nixon's reduction of U.S. involvement in Indochina.

The sortie rate, which reached a peak of about 1,800 a month in 1968, has been trimmed periodically; to about 1,400 a month in early 1970, then to 1,200 a month in August and 1,000 a month average starting last September.

The B52 is generally regarded as one of the most effective U.S. weapons in the war.

B52s entered the Vietnam battle in June 1969 and at the high point of their operations 102 of the bombers operated from Guam, Thailand and Okinawa against Indochina targets.

The administration will cut the overall B52 force by about 45 planes by mid-1972.

By then, the air fleet will include about 455 B52s.

The Pentagon is embarked on a program to disperse B52s more widely and further inland in the United States in order to reduce the vulnerability of the bomber force to destruction by missiles.

matters for highly skilled judges and prosecutors, than minor traffic offenses, loitering and drunkenness," he said.

Nixon said what he termed "parajudges" could work under the supervision of trained attorneys and "deal with many of the essentially administrative matters of the law, freeing the judge to do what only he can do—to judge."

In a summary passage, Nixon also said:

"We must change the criminal court system, and provide the manpower—in terms of court staffs, prosecutors, and defense counsel—to bring about speedier trials and appeals."

Nixon called, too, for giving the convicted criminal "constructive training while in confinement, instead of what he receives now—and advanced may need to consider additional fiscal stimulants," he said.

Burns mentioned reinstating the investment tax credit repealed in 1969, speeding up the effective dates of deferred tax cuts under the 1969 tax reform act, or postponing the increase in the Social Security tax base recommended by Nixon.

Dr. Paul McCracken, chairman of Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally and George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, previously indicated tax relief may be necessary if the economic recovery is too slow. Burns, McCracken, Connally and Shultz make up Nixon's economic "quadrilateral."

Nixon has proposed two-year budget deficits totalling $30 billion to fire up the economy but even his advisers admit the fiscal stimulus isn't enough to reach the 9 per cent growth he is projecting for 1971.

Instead, the President is relying on a vigorous expansion of the money supply by the Federal Reserve to reach his objective. The independent Fed, however, is reluctant, fearing the expansion that Nixon wants would rekindle inflation.

Restoration of the 7 per cent investment credit would encourage business investment, now one of the weakest sectors of the economy.

Speedup in already-approved tax cuts, scheduled for 1972 and 1973, would show up immediately as cash in consumers' pockets through less withholding taxes. The cuts come through raising the personal income tax exemption.

Three British Soldiers Are Shot to Death

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The hunt was on today in Northern Ireland for the slayers of three young British soldiers. Detectives believe they were surrounded while drinking in a pub, marched outside and murdered.

The three bodies were found still warm Wednesday night on a lonely lane on the west side of Belfast. All had been shot in the back of the head. The two children who found them and raised the alarm were taken to a hospital in shock.

Roadblocks were thrown up throughout the province in search of a small red car believed used by the killers.

Security forces attributed the killings to an extremist wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, guerrillas sworn to unite Protestant Northern Ireland with the Roman Catholic Irish Republic. The two feuding IRA wings denied having anything to do with the deaths.

The soldiers, two of them brothers 17 and 18, were members of the Royal Highland Fusiliers, a Scottish infantry brigade. The third man was 23. They were unarmed and in civilian clothes.

An army spokesman called it "the worst crime" in two years of violence in British-ruled Northern Ireland. The deaths brought to six the number of British soldiers slain, and 50 other persons have died in factional clashes between Catholics and Protestants since August 1969.

Nothing like it had happened to British troops since Jewish guerrillas in Palestine kidnapped and hanged two British sergeants in 1947.

"I am shocked and horrified by the cold-blooded killing of these three young men," Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark told newsmen. The British Cabinet held an emergency meeting in London.

Hard-line Protestants in Chichester-Clark's Ulster Unionist party were expected to renew demands that the army and police take tougher action against known leaders of the IRA.

Informed sources in London believed still more troops would be sent to Northern Ireland, boosting its present garrison of 8,500.

In Dublin, the killings were condemned by the Irish Press, newspaper of Prime Minister Jack Lynch's Fianna Fail party.

Attorney Acquitted by Jury

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — A federal District Court jury deliberated 4½ hours Wednesday and acquitted Lee Ward, prominent Jonesboro attorney, of a charge of concealing $1,400 with the intent to defeat federal bankruptcy laws.

Ward, 64, an unsuccessful candidate for governor and congress, hugged his wife, who was seated next to him, when the verdict was read.

The government had contended that Ward "willfully and fraudulently" kept $1,400 belonging to Mrs. Nina P. Black of Jonesboro, whom Ward represented during bankruptcy proceedings in 1969.

Ward contended that he had been "set up" by Mrs. Black. He said he paid her the $1,400 in 1960 bills in January of 1969, but failed to get a receipt for the money.

Asked if he was contemplating civil action against Mrs. Black, Ward said, "You know, there's an old tale that says the more you stir up something, the more it stinks. I don't intend to stir any more. I'm just going to practice law like I've always done."

Claims Brushed Aside in SST Debate

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite contentions a supersonic transport fleet might alter the world's climate, the Nixon administration brushed aside the idea of an international moratorium on SST construction without asking if other nations were interested.

Bertram W. Rein, deputy assistant secretary of state for transportation and telecommunications, confirmed in a telephone interview "there has been no approach of that kind" to the Soviet Union, Great Britain or France which are building SSTs.

SST supporters argue other countries will build the faster-than-sound plane even if the United States does not.

In an environmental-impact statement issued last December, the Transportation Department mentioned the possibility "that production of all SSTs on a worldwide basis be halted until the environmental effects of SST flight can be explored."

But the statement dismissed the idea with the argument: "It is unlikely that at this stage production could be halted since it would appear to be a U.S. attempt to overcome their lead."

A Senate Appropriations subcommittee is taking testimony on the Nixon administration's request for $290 million to continue development of two SST prototypes.

Following Adv 6:30 a.m. EST
In a statement prepared for the subcommittee, AFL-CIO President George Meany said continuation of the SST program will create an eventual 200,000 jobs, help recover a favorable U.S. balance of trade and put the slumping aerospace industry back on its feet.

"The opposition of the conservationists is based more on emotion than on fact. ... We do not view the SST as a 'plaything for the international jet set, but as the top of a product line that can help to stem and reverse the nation's dollar drain," Meany said.

The head of the 13.6-million-member labor federation told the subcommittee: "The airlines of the world—including American carriers—will fly the best planes available. But if they cannot get them with a made-in-the-USA label, they will get them elsewhere."

The British-French Concorde already is being tested and may see commercial operation by 1974. The Soviet Union is reported on the verge of starting commercial SST flights this year.

The possibility high-flying SSTs might affect the weather has been a major arguing point of opponents of the aircraft.

The Transportation Department's environmental-impact statement quoted a Massachusetts Institute of Technology study group's recommendation for more research on the possibility SST exhaust might increase winter cloudiness in the polar regions.

But it omitted the group's finding that "A feeling of genuine concern has emerged from these conclusions."

The MIT study recommended "that uncertainties about SST

HOPE (ARK.) STAR, Printed by Offset Vitamin C Is Still Recommended

DENVER (AP) — Dr. Linus Pauling, who has suggested big doses of Vitamin C to ward off the common cold, says his critics should save their breath and "have an extra glass of orange juice."

The Nobel Prize-winning chemist says he has been the object of false and misleading criticism since December when he said a daily dose of 1,000 to 5,000 milligrams of Vitamin C would prevent common colds. To arrest a cold, he suggested 10,000 to 15,000 milligrams daily.

Such massive doses, in contrast to the 35 to 60 milligrams generally recommended to prevent scurvy, could have severe effects on the human body, Pauling's critics contend.

Pauling said Tuesday at a news conference, "Vitamin C is about as nontoxic a substance as there is in the world."

He said "half a dozen first-rate studies" back him up.

Severe diarrhea could result from massive doses of Vitamin C, according to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. Some Future Homemakers Learn Fix-it Skills

Hope High School Future Homemakers of America join the educational endeavor to help homeowners learn "Fix-it" skills and manage the home more efficiently. Pictured above left to right are FHA members displaying posters they prepared to attract homeowners: Vickie Lafferty, Louise Kramer, LaJuanna Rowe, Kay Clayton, and Sandy Sinyard. Hope FHA is supervised by Mrs. Helen Clark and Mrs. Estelle Spearman, Hope High School Home Economics

Instructors. The "Fix-it" Short Course will be conducted by the Hempstead County Extension Service March 18-19 at Hope Colliseum 9:00-11:00 a.m.—1:00-3:00 p.m. Homeowners interested in attending should call the County Extension Office 777-5771 to enroll and get further details. The Hope High FHA also suggests that homeowners might enroll in downtown stores where posters appear.

Where All the Best People Shop These Days—Garbage Cans

By NANCY PRATT

NEW YORK — (NPA) — Keeping up with the Joneses is no longer desirable. What is desirable, for me, is a kind of reverse snobism. Not prestigious any longer is how much an item costs, but, rather, how little. For higher status appeal—get it for free. Where? The garbage. The absolute reverse of conspicuous consumption. Discarding furniture, cars, clothes, seems to be the hallmark of the American way. There are garbage cans chock-a-block with trash (trash is not to be confused with garbage—egg shells, orange peels, etc.), that a trained nose can sniff out. Although abandoned houses, town dumps, empty lots also contain occasional trifles, I try to stick to curbside findings. I'm luckiest there. Instinctively I nose out the right streets, usually in the posher neighborhoods, but there are no hard and fast rules about this. Since trash collections occur on different days in different areas, it helps to know what these days are, for good cruising. The good finds unpredictably occur when I'm wearing dungarees. But I never let that deter me. Recently I've found myself doing a kind of mental window-shopping. The "I think-therefore-I-find" attitude. The determination makes it work. I do get a little help from my friends by infecting them with the idea of this thing. Take the wicker couch I knew I must have. Within two weeks of talking about nothing else, I found one. It had just been cleaned off someone's porch. I dragged it into my station wagon, and drove home very slowly. I've used a lot of white paint since then because the next week I found another couch, two matching chairs, and a Victorian wicker lamp which I couldn't turn off. I barter with a fellow collector. I give him doorknobs. He gives me soapstone carvings, parts of oak chairs, things too ornate for his taste. I find the picture frame supply almost unending, even though not always the right size. So we exchange frames, too. Taking an oak bench, (oak is big on the Antique Scene now) from an East 96th Street curb recently could have turned out a nightmare. I was looking over the bench when an onlooker advised against taking it. "Why not?" I asked. "Well, I would have taken it myself if it wasn't infested with termites," he said. My first thought was whether to believe him. My second thought was that I knew an honest person when I saw one, and this bench would prove my undoing. I wouldn't give it up! I doused it with the strongest termite killer I could get. I have not yet seen a termite in it. I still have the first oak bibelot I ever found, 22 years ago. It's a carved wooden gargoyle I named Oscar. Memorable mainly because my mother promptly threw the "garbage" out. A violation of my person. I thought I retrieved Oscar from the garbage) and my trashing talents went underground from that moment on. Stubbornly cemented with a love for old things and a will to be allowed my own way, I launched a career of trashing. The ultimate and crowning insult to a reverse snob is when he actually moved to buy something. Like four Grand Rapids chairs. In New York City Grand Rapids chairs have an antique look, but are machine-made. They are very "in" right now among the Anti-right now among the Anti-Set, and it would seem the more expensive they are, the more popular. I was happy to see so many appearing in the antique stores. It was like welcoming old friends, that in Wisconsin I found discarded or could buy for 50 cents, a buck, at most. Now in 1971 in New York, those very same chairs are four for $160. It's hard to change values for chairs. They weren't that good friends. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

IN HOLLYWOOD

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD—(N E A)—Dennis Weaver put his arm around Shelley Winters' ample shoulders. "This is my old flame," he said. They are two of the three stars — the other is Debbie Reynolds — in George Edwards' thriller, "What's the Matter With Helen?", now being filmed. Shelley smiled and reached up to pat Dennis' cheek. "That's right," she said. "We were in 'Streetcar' together in—when was it?" "53," Dennis said. "And very good we were, too," said Shelley. Later, when Weaver wasn't around, Shelley told the story of how she helped him get to Hollywood. "I was sort of responsible for his coming here," she said. "I suggested him to somebody. But I shouldn't have done him any favors. He was on his way to becoming another Brando. Actually, he came here too soon. He made a lot of money here, but he could have been a great actor if he had stayed in New York awhile longer. Dennis, when told about his being passed by a second Brando, said, "That's very nice of her, but a Brando comes along only once in a decade. They were shooting in a house that was standing and—when Shelley and Debbie were talking, Shelley played the piano and Debbie taught dancing. Debbie was wearing a platinum-blonde wig and a brief sailor suit which showed off her lovely figure. Weaver watched her and said, "You know, most little girls look funny, but Debbie has a beautiful figure." And he was right. The 16 little girls — eight or nine years old, mostly — were tapping away while Shelley (supposedly) played "On the Good Ship Lollipop" or something like that. The producer had put out a call for "Shirley Temple look-alikes" and 200 girls came. Tad Tadlock, the choreographer, says she was surprised at the result of the call. She didn't think little girls were being taught tap dancing much any more. "And," she says, "I expected them to come in with rock music. But here they came, and the music they brought was the same things we used when I was their age — 'Marie' or 'The Sheik' or 'Araby' or 'Tea for Two.' Debbie looked at all the little girls and said that she didn't take any dancing lessons at all when she was their age. I never studied until I was 16," she said. "Before then, I had wanted to be a swim teacher. Despite the Shirley Temple syndrome, the film is a child-thriller about the two girls, Debbie and Shelley, and a horror which haunts them. It's a good film, and it's a good time to see a state film.
